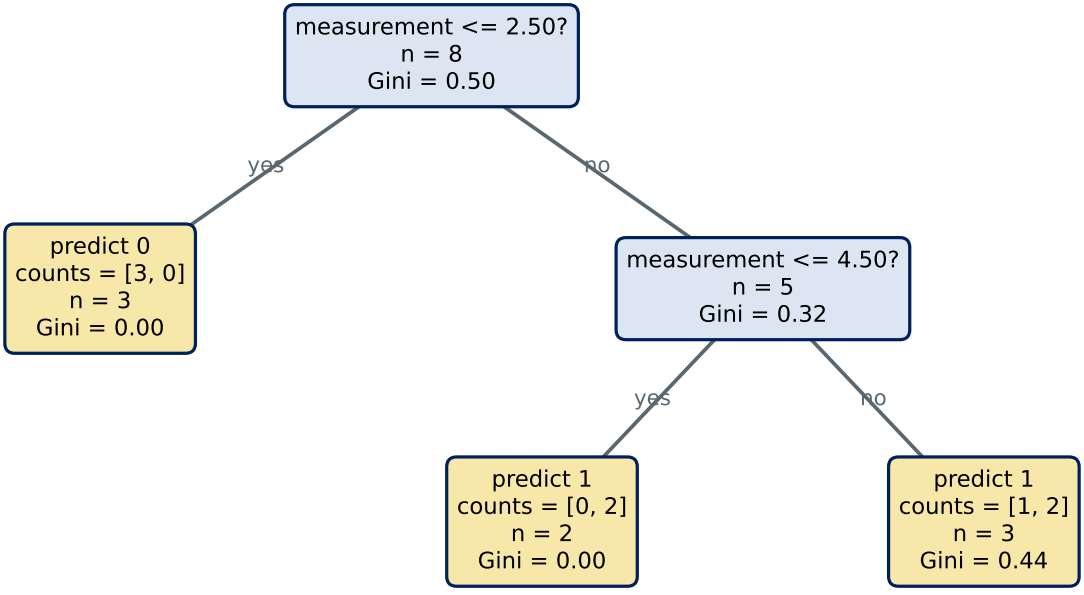
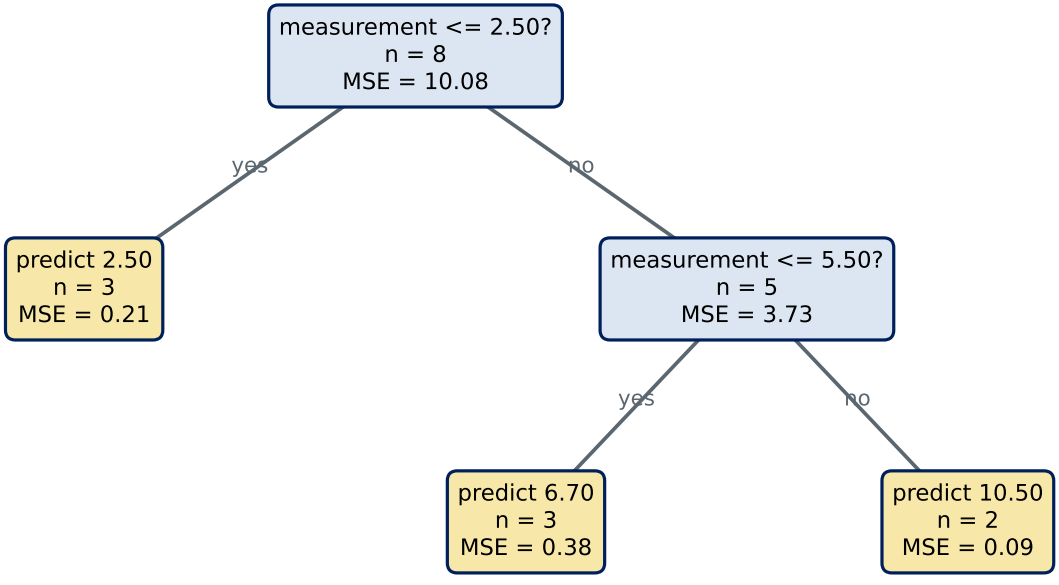
Classification: each leaf stores class counts and an empirical probability





Regression: each leaf stores a local mean and within-leaf squared error